Juror's Statements

Artist Steve Kell,

Here's my story in a nutshell, and the allusion is apropos since I've been accused of being a little "nutty."

I grew up drawing and painting from an early age, inheriting a bit of my mother's many talents. Fast forward to my senior year in college. An army draft notice landed in my mailbox and rudely interrupted any plans for medical school. The Air Force seemed like a good idea, nothing against the Army, but I favored airplanes over fox holes. So began a flying career, finishing up my commitment to the Air Force flying DC-3's in Viet Nam, and subsequently flying for 25 years commercially for PSA and USair.

During all those flying years I moonlighted as a humorous greeting card writer and free-lance magazine cartoonist, selling to Cosmopolitan, Saturday Evening Post, and Good Housekeeping, for example. I also created the syndicated newspaper strip, "The Captain and Mandy," dealing with the first woman in the cockpit and a macho captain. The strip appeared in over 80 newspapers nationwide.

After an early retirement I returned to the easel, studied for years with Leonardo Scarola, then ventured outside with a variety of respected plein air painting instructors. Embracing the challenge and mystery of oil paint and light on a two-dimensional surface was life-changing. The adventure, the quest, the goal was to lay something on the canvas that embodies the spirit of the scene, as well as the beauty, and in that, was the ultimate satisfaction.

I'm currently represented at Mission Fine Art Gallery, San Juan Capistrano, Studio 7, Laguna Beach, Chemers Gallery, Tustin, The Store, Crystal Cove, and Westervelts, San Juan Capistrano.

Photographer Greg Sullivan

Greg Sullivan evolved an interest in art and photography as an opportunity to enjoy and share visual EarthWide experiences. Greg emphasizes development of his photographic skills as a visual art form. Greg's photography is motivated by an observation of everything we see around us. Photography provides the opportunity to capture and retain a situation and view an occurrence observed. By looking around and capturing an image a photograph taken from a unique perspective becomes art and a circumstance to be enjoyed and remembered. With his camera, Greg is able to share the experience from near to afar, EarthWide, including scenes and circumstances derived from his own community and present locale. The camera provides the opportunity; the photographer completes the memory.

Greg has Won Awards, has been published, and has had his images on display in Exhibitions exceeding 100 times in photographic competitions, gallery exhibitions, and in publications related to photography, travel, and travel writing. His history of accomplishments can be reviewed at: www.earthwidephotography.com.
