A native of southern California, Elizabeth McGhee has exhibited at the Festival of Arts in Laguna Beach since 2010. Her work has been displayed in museums and universities across the country, and she is both nationally and internationally collected.

“Using symbolic language, I often turn to humor to address serious or controversial subjects in my paintings. My intention is not to promote any particular concept or ideal, but to inspire analysis and contemplation in my viewers.”

An oil painter trained in the classical realist tradition, she graduated from Laguna College of Art and Design cum laude in 2009 with a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in Drawing and Painting. Elizabeth has also studied with Marc Trujillo, Sergio Sanchez, John Brosio, Jason Dowd, and Lance Richlin.
